The Orphan Boy Author Elected Rookie Of The Year

Denver – July 1, 2007– BurgYoung Publishing, LLC, a book publishing company, announced today the nomination and election of author H. Court Young by the West Metro Sales Professionals as “Rookie of the Year” June 25, 2007.

Having been someone who embraces the ideals of the Sales Professionals, has excellent attendance, exhibits professionalism in his career and has made a difference in his club, Young was voted in to achieve this special award by the club’s board members.

Young will be honored at the Sales Professionals USA National Convention in San Diego for his achievement in September 2007.

About H. Court Young:

H. Court Young wrote his first book about Water and Water Rights in 1987. It started as a short report on water and water rights. It was self published in 1991. In 2001, Young formed BurgYoung Publishing with his business partner Diana Burg. Today, Young has written and published four books and produced three CD-ROMS. Mr. Young received his Bachelors degree in Geology from the University of Arizona. He became operationally Hazmat trained in preparation for consulting on a water remediation project on a superfund site. He is an elected member of his local water board and belongs to the Association of Mining History, The Colorado Mining Association, Colorado Independent Publisher’s Association and the Infraguard Colorado Chapter.
